LUNADA BAYTILE | TEXTILE

TEXTILE PATTERNS

Bargello

The name "Bargello" originates from a pair of 17th century chairs discovered in the Bargello palace in Florence, which incorporated the flame stitch pattern into the chair upholstery.
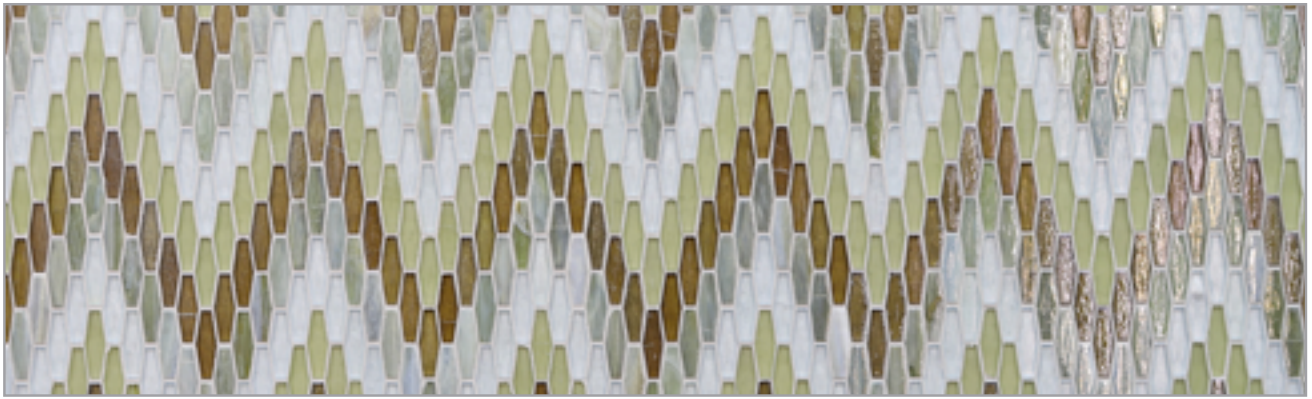

Imberline

While Imberline is traditionally used in upholstery and drapery, we recreated the pattern in lustrous glass tile that is perfect for walls and backsplashes where a dramatic stripe can make a visual impact.
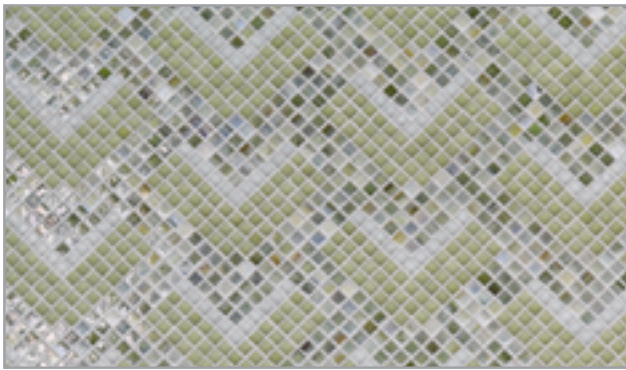

Normandie Deco

Lunada Bay Tile takes a cue from the opulent Art Deco furnishings found in the famous 1930s French luxury ocean liner.

COLORWAY

Bargello

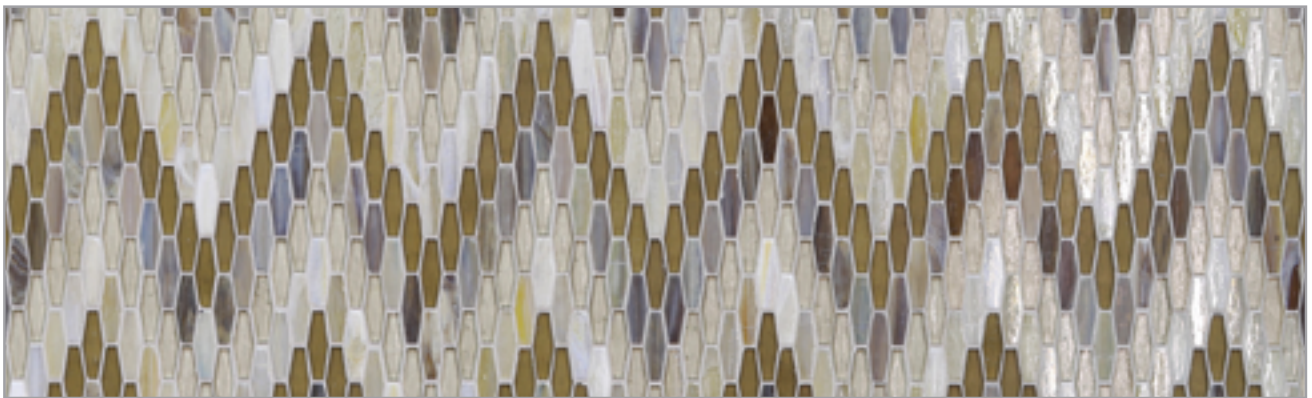

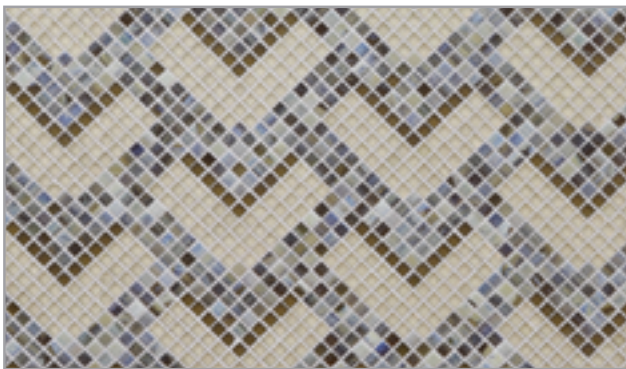

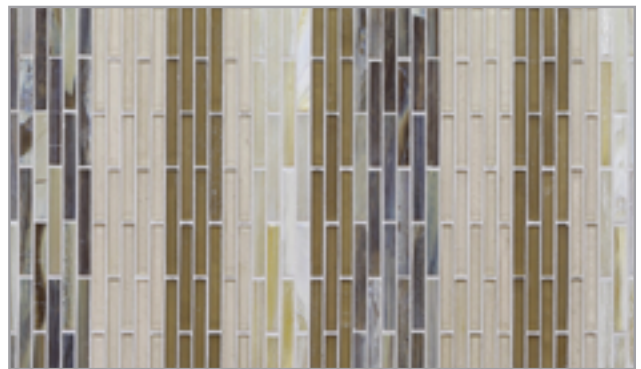

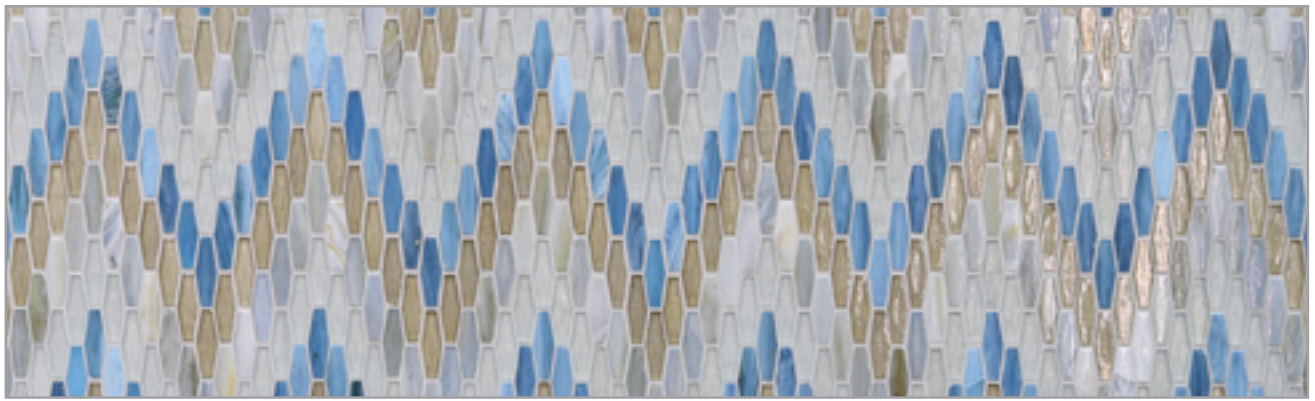

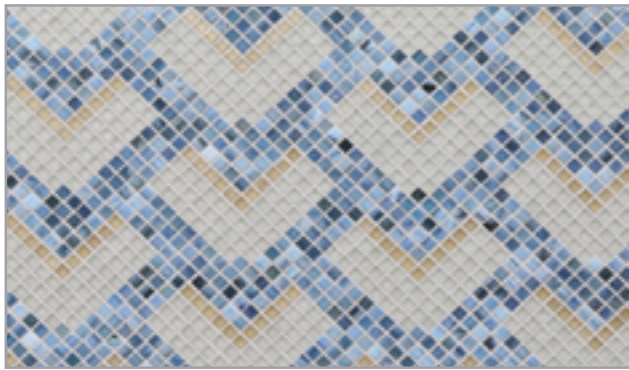

Normandie Deco

Imberline

Anise

Bargello

Normandie Deco

Imberline

Mica

COLORWAY

Bargello

Normandie Deco

Imberline

Morning Light

Bargello

Normandie Deco

Imberline

Blue Stone

COLORWAY

Bargello

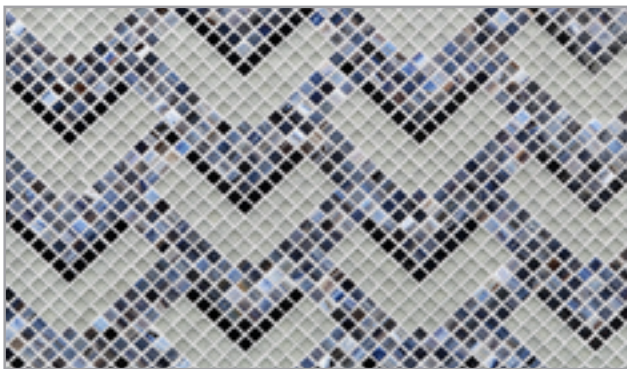

Normandie Deco

Imberline

Flannel

Bargello

Normandie Deco

Imberline

Lunar Eclipse

Textile [ˈtek stīl]

noun
origin: Latin

1. A modern take on vintage patterns recreated in glass

Inspired by some of the most remarkable vintage textile patterns and weaving techniques from around the world, Textile by Lunada Bay Tile creates imaginative, sustainable and glimmering glass mosaic tile surfaces for commercial and residential applications in three patterns—Bargello, Imberline, and Normandie Deco.

Please visit LunadaBayTile.com for our complete product offerings, applications and installation instructions.