

We've updated our popular Haisen collection with two new patterns (1x1 Offset and 1x2 Brick) and a curated selection of colors, including a new hue, Starlight.

By tradition, a sake drinking cup was washed in a decorative bowl filled with water, called a Haisen, and then shared to show respect and deepen friendship.

Today, the word "Haisen" also refers to the vessels that display flower petals floating on water. Lunada Bay Tile's Haisen collection is handcrafted by melding streams of colored glass that drift and unite in a multitude of hues. The swirl and flow of color create transformative moods ranging from quiet, meditative fields of vision to spaces of warm celebration and camaraderie.
